Brittany American Cemetery - Kenneth Bleau

Kenneth Bleau grave details

There are two main American cemeteries in France. The first is Normandy Cemetery. Normandy Cemetery overlooks Omaha Beach (one of five primary beaches affiliated with the June 6th 1944 D-Day landing) in Normandy and contains the graves of 9,386 of American military dead.

A second American cemetery is located 1.5 miles southeast of the village of St. James and 12 miles south of Avranches. This is ~100 kilometers (60 miles) south and west of Normandy. This cemetery is Brittany Cemetery. Kenneth Bleau is buried at Brittany Cemetery along with 4,409 other American soldiers.

Distinguished Service Cross

The Distinguished Service Cross, established by Act of Congress on 9 July 1918 but retroactive to 6 April 1917, is awarded to a person who, while serving in any capacity with the United States Army, distinguishes himself or herself by extraordinary heroism while engaged in an action against an enemy of the United States, while engaged in military operations involving conflict with an opposing or foreign force, or while serving with friendly foreign forces engaged in an armed conflict against an opposing armed force in which the United States is not a belligerent party. The act or acts of heroism must have been so notable and have involved risk of life so extraordinary as to set the individual apart from their comrades. In precedence for valor, the Distinguished Service Cross ranks immediately behind the Medal of Honor.

Purple Heart

The Purple Heart is awarded to members of the Armed Forces of the United States who after 5 April 1917 have been wounded or killed in action against an enemy of the United States or an opposing armed force, while serving with friendly foreign forces engaged in an armed conflict, as the result of acts of enemy or hostile opposing forces, as a result of terrorist attacks or attacks on peacekeeping forces since 28 March 1973, or by friendly fire in circumstance as described above.

LT. KENNETH BLEAU DIES IN FRANCE AUGUST 1ST 1944

Son Of Louis And Bessie Suters Bleau,

Former Residents,

Killed In Action August 1st

Waterville Times - 1944 Aug. 24.

Lt. Kenneth Bleau, 26, of Ilion, was killed in action August 1 in Normandy, according to a War Department telegram sent Monday to his wife, Mary Jane Space Bleau, Clinton, who informed his mother, Mrs. Bessie A Bleau of Ilion.

Lieutenant Bleau was born in Ilion, a son of the late Louis B. and Bessie Suters Bleau, both of whom were residents of Waterville for several years.

By a strange coincidence Lieutenant Bleau apparently was killed the same day he had written a letter to his mother in which he said he was feeling fine and would probably be in action soon.

In Normandy Campaign

He had participated in the Normandy campaign since its inception, having been one of a trio who killed 100 Germans on D-Day while following a commander who had said that to stay on the beach was to be killed, so why not fight and be off the beach.

The lieutenant lost most of his men in that advance, but the group pushed on into Colleville, some 3,000 yards, and he and 12 others were still there the next day grimly holding a courtyard when reinforcements arrived: A presidential citation was awarded for the action.

The young fighter, who would have been 27 next Sunday, received only a slight ear wound in all his Normandy fighting and considered himself in good shape for continuing, according to letters sent home.

He has been overseas since May, 1943, leaving about two years after he entered the service. He enlisted in the Air Force in February, 1941, and was transferred to Officer Candidate School some months later. He was commissioned a second lieutenant in October, 1942, at Fort Benning, Ga. He also trained with the ski troops.

Married in 1943

He married the former Miss Space in the spring of 1943, just prior to his departure. She makes her home with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Space, Clinton.

Lieutenant Bleau was graduated from Ilion High School, being active in football and basketball. He was also an outstanding swimmer and diver.

He studied physical education at the University of Alabama and was diving champion while there. Before entering the Army he was employed by Remington Rand in Ilion.

Besides his mother and wife, he leaves three sisters, Mrs. George Finnegan, Washington, D. C; Mrs. Thomas Lockyer, Ilion; and Mrs. Harry Seymour, Chicago; also four brothers, William, Herkimer; Carl and Louis, Ilion and S. Sgt. Raymond Bleau, with the Signal Corps in France.

Lieutenant Kenneth Bleau, of Ilion, whose wife is the former Miss Mary Jane Space, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence E. Space, of Clinton, was killed in action in Normandy on August 1. A War Department telegram received by Mrs. Bleau on Monday gave no details.

In action continuously since DDay, Lieutenant Bleau won widespread recognition and the personal congratulations of Major-General Clarence R. Huebner for his part in the invasion when his company was credited with saving a division. Landing under enemy fire, the unit suffered casualties that cut its numbers to a third and was finally bottled up with Germans on all sides. During the night, the little group fought wildly, and when they were relieved in the morning a count showed that they had killed more than 100 Nazis.

Lieutenant Bleau, who would have been 28 years old on Sunday, received the Purple Heart decoration for wounds received in the invasion of France, and had been recommended for decorations. He had been overseas since May 1943. He enlisted in the Army Air Forces in February 1941, entering officer candidate school some months later, and was commissioned a second lieutenant in October 1942, at Fort Benning. He also trained with the ski troops.

Kenneth married in Utica on April 17, 1943. Mrs. Bleau has, since her husband's departure for overseas duty, been taking postgraduate work at Columbia University, and is now at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence E. Space, 61 Utica street, Clinton.

Presentation Of the Distinguished Service Cross, posthumously awarded by the President to her husband, Lieutenant Kenneth Bleau, of 61 Utica street, Clinton, in the headquarters of District No. 3, Second Service Command, in Syracuse yesterday, by Colonel F. S. Swett, the district commander.

Present at the ceremony with Mrs. Bleau were her mother, Mrs. Clarence E. Space, and Mrs. Bessie Bleau, of Ilion, mother of Lieutenant Bleau. Soldiers of District 3 formed a color guard while other personnel of the district formed a military background. The citation accompanying the award read as follows:

"For extraordinary heroism in action against the enemy on 6 June, 1944, In . . . Second Lieutenant Bleau, with complete disregard for his own safety, personally reconnoitered a path through an intricate and dense mine field under heavy artillery, mortar and small arms fire. He then led his men through the gap to a German-dominated ridge. When his unit was completely surrounded on the ridge by enemy riflemen, and two hostile machine guns fired at point-blank range, threatening to annihilate his company, Second Lieutenant Bleau crawled forward to within twenty yards of the weapons and destroyed the gun and crew with hand grenades. He then fearlessly charged the second emplacement, and knocked it out of action."

"Later, during two hostile counterattacks, Lieutenant Bleau engaged the enemy in violent hand-to-hand combat, personally killing five Germans and wounding many others. By his heroic achievement, exemplary bravery, and devotion to duty, Second Lieutenant Bleau acted in keeping with the highest traditions of the Armed Forces."

The action, which won for 2nd Lt. Kenneth Bleau of the 1st Infantry, son of Mrs. Bessie Bleau, Charles St., the Distinguished Service Cross, is described in the citation from the War Department, which has been received, by his mother and his wife, the former Mary Jane Space, Clinton. The action took place in Normandy on June 6, 1944 but the medal will be awarded posthumously as Lt. Bleau, after recovering from an ear wound for which he was awarded the Purple Heart, was killed in action on August 1, 1944.

The citation says: "For extraordinary heroism in Action against the enemy on June 6, 1944. In . . . 2nd Lt. Bleau, with complete disregard for his own safety, personally reconnoitered a path through an intricate and dense mine field under heavy artillery, mortar and small arms fire."

Mrs. Bessie Bleau, Charles Street, was in Syracuse last Wednesday for the posthumous presentation of the Distinguished Service Cross to her son, Lt. Kenneth Bleau who was killed in action in France on August 1.

Present at the ceremony with Mrs. Bleau were her mother, Mrs. Clarence E. Space, and Mrs. Bessie Bleau, of Ilion, mother of Lieutenant Bleau. Soldiers of District 3 formed a color guard while other personnel of the district formed a military background. The citation accompanying the award read as follows:

This award, second only to the Congressional Medal of Honor, is the first to be made to an Ilionite in World War II, and the medal itself was presented to Lt. Bleau's widow, Mary Jane Space Bleau, at Syracuse Army headquarters by Maj. Gen. Sweat. The ceremony was also attended by young Mrs. Bleau's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Space, Clinton.

"A series of acts" of exceptional bravery on the first day of the invasion of France were listed in the citation accompanying the award which was published in a previous issue of the Sentinel.

Lt. Bleau, a graduate of Ilion high school class of 1936, was outstanding as a football player and diver and was diving champion at the University of Alabama.
