Mystery Solved

Why History Teacher, Miss Ruth Gordon, was called 'Goosie Gordon'

Miss Ruth Gordon was a legend amongst those students on whom she left an imprint during her many years of tenure at Iliion High School. Now, we know that she also left her imprint on more than just her students and that is how she got her nickname, Goosie Gordon.

The Iliion Sentinel published an article, in the June 29, 1954 edition, that provided the answer to how she came to have that nickname. The article title was "Around the Valley - Personal But Not Confidential" and contained fun items of interests for readers.

They tell us that the parade of Miss Ruth Gordon's geese up and down upper Otsego Street is a sight for eyes ---- and a traffic stopper. When Mother Goose takes the young ones for a stroll and they waddle along after her in single file, imitating her every move, even truck drivers come to a halt along Otsego Street ... and to make sure the little ones don't get hit. - June 29, 1954 - The Iliion Sentinel - Illion NY Sentinel 1954 Jan-Aug - 0462.pdf

Miss Ruth Gordon graduated from Iliion High School in 1918. She attended Wells College and returned to her hometown. In 1925, she began teaching history at the Iliion High School. She continued teaching history until her retirement.

For those of us who never had her as a teacher, but knew about her and were afraid to venture onto her property on the corner of Brook St. and Elm Street, she remained a mystery to us. Others who were you brave enough to Trick-or-Treat at Goosie Gordon's house, shared their 'Goosie Gordon Halloween Tales' featured in October 1998.
